

Team Alignment & Leadership Development Workshop

If you just have 1 day...

with a limited time for teacher in-service training the head of school must be incredibly thoughtful in deciding what to do to make the biggest impact in the least amount of time. This is precisely why e.Merging developed our Team Alignment & Leadership Development Workshop. It is a powerful day that will deliver the 1 thing that every head of school wants more than anything, which is a team that:

- is aligned
- is accountable
- is self-aware
- is unwilling to blame others or circumstances when things go sideways
- is committed to the practice of shared ownership
- is focused on creating the outcomes that move the organization forward
- is open and honest in the exchanges of ideas
- is focused on core principles of continuous improvement instead of continuous complaining
- is able to course correct in the midst of an increasingly dynamic work environment
- is communicating effectively
- is treating each other with mutual trust & respect
- is extraordinary at consistently producing results
- is above all fun and inspiring

Think this is a big promise? You are right, it is, and we have consistently delivered these results to a wide range of teams and team leaders over the past 20 years! We are certain in our ability to facilitate a remarkably positive, inspiring, and transformative day with you and your team.

Imagine what it would feel like to lead a team that was filled with people who knew exactly what they were doing, why they were doing it, how it mapped to the big picture, and all the while taking 100% accountability for their unique contribution to the big picture.

Pretty bold, pretty inspiring, and it is all possible. You just need to give us 1 day to work with you and your team on functioning as a High Performing Team.

"My experience of the 1 day team alignment and leadership development session facilitated by e.Merging was surprisingly transformational and incredibly valuable. I say surprisingly because I have sat through so many "professional development" sessions throughout my career that were a complete waste of time that when I arrived in the room for another day of "professional development" I was already resigned that my day would be wasted. Boy, was I wrong! This session, from start to finish, had me totally engaged and inspired. I learned a ton about myself, how great teams function, what shared leadership means, and how my "way of being" impacts everything I do and everything I create. As a result of the session I am renewed, refreshed and revived as I head into a new school year. I am also aware that I am 100% accountable for the results I have been asked to create. In short, the session was utterly fantastic and anyone would benefit from e.Merging's work and this conversation."
